

BAILEY EDUCATION GROUP EXPANDS IN LOUISIANA

Bailey Education Group, LLC, (Bailey) is expanding to reach more children in Louisiana. Dr. Andy Parker has been leading the company's efforts in Louisiana and welcomes Searcy Kay, who will be the Louisiana Sales Representative. "In the past, Searcy and I have worked as a team in Louisiana, and together with our coaches, we will expand Bailey's opportunities to serve students in our state," announced Andy Parker, Ph.D., Director of Professional Learning and Leadership Development. "Our goal at Bailey is to improve the lives of all children, and we look forward to partnering with more Louisiana school districts to assist in that effort."

Kay comes to Bailey having worked in the private and public sectors of education. Searcy most recently served as a curriculum consultant. Her public education experience includes serving as a teacher, assistant principal, principal and more, in the Gulf Coast school districts. She received her bachelor's degree in science with a focus on English and master's degree in Education Leadership from William Carey University. Her professional development includes Millsaps College's Principals Institute, Ron Clark Academy, Emergenetics Training and more.

"I decided to become a teacher assistant while going through college. Seeing students look into your eyes hungry for learning something new each day gave me a feeling of hope and excitement that I could contribute to a child's future," commented Kay. "Joining Bailey Education Group is one of my goals - their coaches make a difference every day, and I want to help expand opportunities to do that."

"We are thrilled to welcome Searcy to the Bailey team," furthered Parker. "She will focus her efforts on promoting our services throughout Louisiana, as well as provide math instructional coaching to our partner districts in Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama."
